

SIMPLIFIED TECHNOLOGY INTEGRATION

SECURED RETAIL IMPLEMENTS TECHNOLOGY IN DISTRIBUTED NETWORKS

Organizations spend a significant amount of time and resources to select and purchase the right technology to support their business. Once that decision has been made, the next challenge is deploying the technology to where it needs to live in the network. The complexity of the deployment process depends on various factors like how large and distributed the organization is or if there is a need for multivendor integration. The more complex the process, the more resources and tools the IT team needs to integrate the solution in to the network. This spike in resources needed strains the team and its day to day projects, making the deployment process inefficient and expensive for most organizations. How can IT teams make sure new technology is implemented properly given the tight budgets and timeframes?

MAXIMIZING PRODUCT INVESTMENT

Integrating solutions properly in to the network requires knowledge of technology manufacturers and best practices from the industry. We employ these in to our Deployment Services which include the planning, configuration, deployment and post deployment support for your new technology integration anywhere in the continental United States. Our services allow you to maximize your product investment by ensuring it is deployed properly and purposefully in to the network without introducing any network complexity or risks.

Whether your project is a first time deployment or a migration, you will work with our project managers to create a plan. Our qualified engineers will ensure each technology is properly configured to serve its role in your networking ecosystem and then deployed in to the network without causing business disruptions. Our goal is to augment your IT team and provide you with the expertise you need to implement solutions in to a distributed network. We accomplish this by streamlining the deployment process and completing it within your timeframes and budget.
